SUNDAY, OCTOBER 9th, 1892

Right and Wrong.

The Paraná Bonds, as we promised, were discussed by the Deputies on Friday last, and although no decision was arrived at, the sense of the house was manifestly opposed to an insidious postponement of so all-important a measure. It would appear as if the members had agreed to put the bill to the vote on its first reading, before entering into its merits. Sr. Elizalde imprudently proposed the reformation of Art. 1. and was called to order by SS. Marmol and Gorostenga, yet refused to admit his misconception of the project, and pressed an untenable amendment. D. J. A. Obligado was also itching for a dispute, and Sr. Quintana was quite combustible when the speech of Dr. Costa, like an electric spark, fired the train and brought on a hoary succession of rhetorical artillery.

It was but meet that Government should explain its motives for supporting the measure, & this the Minister did with a grace and ingenuous vigor that convinced his hearers, while baffling all contradiction. He dwelt on the anxiety wherewith the provinces awaited the recognition of this debt, on which depended the welfare of thousands. He showed that a repudiation of these Bonds, far from chastising fraud if such existed, would rob the honest traders who had placed credit in the State. He quoted the case we lately mentioned, of the U. States, when speculators advanced money on $100 bills at a depreciation of 75 to 85 per cent., & on which question being raised it was decided by Congress that the holders were entitled to the full amount i. e. to ten times the value received by the Republic. He replied to the charge of universal extortion by stating that the 3 millions loan incurred since sacred debts, such as 20.000$ advanced free of interest, by a Rosario firm, for the pacification of Mendoza; also civil salaries pensions to the widow and the orphan, subsidies for worship and education &c. He called to mind how notably public credit was affected by this bill, as various foreign merchants would demand payment of these securities, and if Congress repudiate, they might subsequently be compelled to admit what should now be accepted with a good grace.

He spoke of the new capital to be thrown into our market by the recognition of these Bonds, which are at present a riddle and an incubus. He depicted the immense profits already resulting to Buenos Ayres from the confidence of English capitalists, who have set on foot two railways and a new Bank shortly to commence operations here. Finally he expounded the grand principle of law, that these Bonds cannot be questioned in the hands of third parties, the only remedy being against the original contractors.

In yesterday's session the knot was at length cut, though unskilfully. The bill passed on general reading, and then the articles were combatted seriatim. The preamble was voted, but Sec. 1. after a stormy debate, was rejected by a majority of 3. Sec. 2 was next staked and won by a majority of one vote. It was, however, remarked that it lacked common sense, by the decapition of Sec. 1, and the informing commissioner took on him to glue together the preamble and Sec. 2, which was effected amid general amusement. Still, it looked an hoax, and the amended law expressed so eloquently—nothing, that Sr Zavaleta introduced another article thus:

"The signification of the above is—that the committee who revise the floating debt, shall do the same with the Paraná Bonds, and advise Congress": the extra duties being already lodged in Bank, to satisfy the interest, etc.

Such an addendum is like the story of the clever Greek painter who put under his pictures: "this is a horse" "this is a dog" &c.

Sr. Marmol thanked God that he was not a lawyer: but, we more fervently thank heaven that we have had no part in such model legislation.

Tremendous Revolution

Probably in no country in the world are people more accustomed to revolutions than in this. This is a sad, though certain fact, and had we a temple of Janus amongst us, we venture to say that, since the Independence to the present hour, its gates would not have been closed for five minutes; for when we are not fighting among ourselves, we have scrambles in the provinces, and when peace is restored there, we are generally entertained with the Indians. Now, however, people seem to be tired of fighting, and there is no getting up a row, neither for fun or bounty. The universal cry is Peace, at any price, and no more revolutions. Our readers will therefore wonder at the heading of this article, as the Standard has always labored for peace; but it becomes our imperative duty to notify the public, both native and foreign, that there is a revolution brooking, which is destined to eclipse the 25th May, 11th September, 9th July, 17th September, and all the other revolutionary dates, which, we regret to say, are so numerous in this country.

The "Standard" is working a revolution in this country, which will fill with the current of events will not fail to discern.

A few years ago, the sheep farmers in this country knew as much about what was going on in their flocks as they "thought" and only when the shadows went round taking up horses, did our unsophisticated farmers know that disturbance was at hand.

A farmer in one partido knew no more about what was going on in another, than did the men who had sheep to sell know where to find a buyer. Such was the lamentable state of ignorance in the country, that robberies were of rare occurrence, and sheep and cattle were too frequently sold at a sacrifice, as no man knew what was passing five leagues from his tranqueró, and to buy or sell a few sheep, it was necessary to come into Buenos Ayres, and reside in some Fonda, waiting on the broker, until half the value of the flock for sale was spent and squandered

Again, people in the camp remained their home letters once in 12 months, and oftentimes letters remained in the Post office for years and years, merely for the want of some advertising medium.

But in a few short months all this will change, from north to south, from east to west, In every respectable English, Irish Scotch, American, even German, house, the "Standard" will be found, with all the latest news, market prices &c., every sheep is sold in the country that is not advertizedin the "Standard" nor a piece of land to be rented or sold which does not appear in our columns.

In plain words, the "Standard" is revolutionizing this country. A line of emigrant packet ships is now about being started between Dublin and B. Ayres; a Liverpool line is also on the tapis, and an agency office is about being established in this city, for the purpose of taking care of immigrants when landed, and defraying their expenses up the Rivers, to whatever Province they may think fit to go.

Are we not right, therefore in saying that we are working a tremendous revolution in this country? and that its future is unsuspectable of exaggeration? Dr. Don Marcho: has applied to us for one hundred copies of our packet edition, by each mail. People at home, when they take a matter up, are not satisfied with half measures but go heart and soul into it. Could our Portefio friends boast of this characteristic, the exports of this country would be double what they are to-day. in a very few years.

The American War.

The war feeling is now fairly waked up. To-night reports came in from every county of the states. Some of the smallest of the 2000 towns are raising 150 to 250 men each. If the President would avail himself of the present excitement, he could raise a million more than is required and overrun the entire South. This will have to be done, unless he disarms the states and gives them their freedom.

I told you in my letter that the government were taking away troops from McClellan. We have just heard that Burnside, with 20,000 men, has arrived at Acquia Creek. This is 90 miles below Washington, on the Potomac, and is the terminus of the Southern Railroad to Richmond. It is only seven miles from Fredericksburg. This is a direct reinforcement of Pope. If the transports can get all of McClellan's off, he will be lucky. This looks like business. Pope will fight. Fighting is what we want, even if whipped. Every battle won or lost, weakens the rebels, and in the end must wind them up.

On the morning of the 6th inst. a large fire occurred in Beekman street; it broke out about 2 a.m. in the Rainbow Hotel. This is a sort of English chop and lodging house. Some of the servants and boarders were burned up; among the latter was a popular old Englishman, named McKenzie; he was a man between 70 and 80 years old; he was a perfect gentleman, well educated and during a period of his life he had been aide-de-camp and secretary to the Duke of Wellington in the Peninsular war. Many of the guests were severely injured, and had a narrow escape with their lives.

The negroes have gone to work again in the tobacco factories at Brooklyn, and the police force has been doubled from this city Several men of the Irish rioters have been arrested.

Saturday morning, August 9th—nine o'clock.

No news. Weather intensely hot; thermometer 94 in the shade. Rebels approaching Malvern Hills in three columns. It will not end the proclamation of Jeff Davis, you will see there that this war will soon become one of killing and outrage.

The wife of an officer of General M'Clellan's staff was arrested yesterday as a Secessionist. All in good time we shall know how it happened that all of M'Clellan's plans were as well known to the rebels as to himself

The telegraph informs us that 100 lives are saved from the Golden Gate steamer.

Superintendent Kennedy returned this morning from Washington, where he had been to consult with the Government in reference to the attempts of the Herald to get up negro riots. The next inciting Herald article will cause the arrest of Bennett. I enclose an article in reference to him.

Mexico.

The Patrie states that no negociation relative to Mexican affairs will be resumed between the Governments of Paris and Madrid tol the city of Mexico is in possession of the French troops. But after the capture of that city, which the Cabinet of Spain regards as a point involving the honour of France, it is not impossible that the Spanish Government may propose to place the Mexican question on the board of the Conference of London which at Madrid is not considered as annulled, but only suspended.

There is no additional intelligence from the French army; but the Patrie guarantees the truth of the report that Zaragoza has been defeated in an attack on the position of Borrigo, taken and fortified by the French after the hurried retreat of the Mexican forces. It adds that, though no precise details of this second engagement have been received, the loss of the Mexicans amounted to 3,000 men, and that the moral effect of the defeat has been very great.

Heavy rains and a north wind are said to have cooled the atmosphere of the terra calente, and, as a consequence, the number of cases of yellow fever in Vera Cruz have diminished.

Garibaldian Movements.

The Correspondent of the Times at Turin says Garibaldi has gathered together at Naples about 450 or 500 adventurers from the mainland. Altogether his force does not certainly exceed 850, between men and boys. These volunteers were at first unarmed, but have been supplied by stratagem with a few hundred muskets by a sub-prefect, a devoted Garibaldino. Garibaldi has no lack of money since the 3,000,000f. lately have been sent over to him from England by the Mazzinian and Garibaldian Committees. There are by this time 20,000 of the royal troops in Sicily,in the hope of avoiding the effusion of blood and in the expectation that the Garibaldini may be induced peaceably to disperse, giving up their enterprise.

The Roman correspondence of the Monde, dated the 9th inst., says that the efforts made by the revolutionists to agitate the city have not produced any great result, and that none of the persons arrested for throwing petards and bombs belong to the Pontifical States. The missiles themselves are of Piedmontese make. His Eminence Cardinal Clarelli has had a bomb burst under his carriage. It caused great consternation, but no one was injured. A young gentleman, Count Ziferi, of Parma, who had joined the Pontifical artillery, died on the 7th, at the army hospital, from a wound in his head.

Turin, 23—The journals say that a number of youths coming from different towns have arrived at Genoa. It is supposed they intend to embark for Palermo.

It was said yesterday that Garibaldi had disappeared, and that it was not known whether he had gone; but telegraphic despatches say that he is in Palermo, not quite well. To-day it is said that Spain will recognize the Kingdom of Italy if the Italian government will give guarantees to the Pope, and that Austria will also recognize the new Kingdom if security is given against attacks on Venetia.

Marseilles, 22—The Pope has put off his departure to Turin. General Tristany has ordered Zimmerman, the chief of a band in the Neapolitan provinces, to be seized for refusing to be subject to his orders. In Naples it is reported that the trial of the Bishop Cattaneppo and of Count Christian for conspiracy has commenced. More than one hundred witnesses have been summoned. The Prince of Sorrin declined to enter into negotiations with the Turks until the city of Belgrade is evacuated and the fortress razed. Austria rejected these pretensions and Russia supports them. France and England support the pretensions of Italy to take part in the conferences of the powers who signed the Treaty of Paris.

DECLARATION OF IMPERIAL POLICY.—The Paris papers publish the following telegram, dated Rome, Tuesday.

"Yesterday the Marquis de Lavalette had an audience of the Pope to whom he gave the assurance, in the name of the Emperor, that France would never permit any invasion of the actual Papal territory, but would guarantee its integrity at any price."

Turkey.

MOSTAR, Sunday.—The Turks have been driven back across the river Rirka with considerable loss. They still continue, however, to attack the Montenegrins. Commanding was beaten yesterday in the direction of Cettigne.

The Paris papers of Monday are all of alarms about the condition of Syria. They publish telegrams from Alexandria, dated the 17th ins. which represent a great amount of discontent and dread as pervading Syria. The revolted Bedouins and Druses are said to be assuming a very dangerous attitude, and the whole situation is described as very grave. But the Paris papers are generally much inclined to play the part of alarmists in regard to the state and prospects of Syria.

A letter from Belgrade, of the 9th in the Siecle, observes:—"The Turks in spite of the armistice, continue their armaments and their defensive works, in the precision of a war which becomes every day more imminent. A body of 2000 Nizams, detached from the army of Anatolia, and transported by railway to Czerna Voda, have come up the Danube in Austrian steamers, and are only at a few hours' distance from Belgrade. Another steamer has landed at the fortress 41 rifled cannon, furnished by the Austrian arsenals. Numerous redoubts have been constructed, and a dockwhich joins the citadel to the Danube has been completed within the last few days. The consuls have remonstrated against the violation of the status quo imposed on the belligerent parties by the Conference, but the Imperial Commissioner has paid no attention to these remonstrances, and the consuls, while the Servian Government scrupulously observed the conditions of the armistice, relying on Europe appreciating its moderation and its forbearance. Nevertheless the news from Constantinople is not very satisfactory, and there is every reason to think that the question now submitted to the attribution of diplomacy cannot be settled but by the sword. Other accounts state that the Turks are making great preparations in Roumi for invading Servian principality on that side They are concentrating troops on the frontier, and preparing to throw bridges over the Dwina.

Irish Harvest.

Dublin, August 20.

The reports of the crops, generally, continue most favourable. The Agricultural Review publishes answers which it has received from 200 different Localities in reply to a circular respecting the prospects of the crops The drift of these replies is, in substance, that the wheat is most promising but that oats, barley, peas, and turnips are above an average crop. I met a gentleman, last evening, who had just returned from a tour through all Galway and Mayo, and he assured me that during his travels through these west counties, he never saw an instance of blight on the potato, nor did he meet with any person who had seen the disease this year. About Dublin the crops green and grain, look admirably well, and already the sickle has done a fair amount of work. The potatoes are abundant and as healthy as of the blight. And never been known above the average in produce; so that on the whole, the agricultural prospects, and these are almost the staple of our hopes, of the country are matters for gratification.

Puno Mines compared with San Juan

The following particulars respecting the Mines of Puno have, for the most part, been extracted from a document belonging to the late General Don Narcisso

Puno, like all mineral districts in this country, is situated in a high range of hills, forming the western boundary of the extensive valley of Titicaca, which is only 12 leagues in circumference, and placed at an elevation of 12,761 feet above the level of the Pacific Ocean. It was into this lake that the Indians at the time of the conquest threw immense quantities of gold and silver, to save them from falling into the hands of the Spaniards; among these was a famous gold chain, of extraordinary size, said to have been worn by order of Inca Huyna Capac, to commemorate a festival given on the birth of his eldest son.

The hills of Puno are composed chiefly of a porphyritic rock, which appears on a sand-stone formation, similar to the red marl and sandstone formation of the British Islands. It corresponds, in its mineralogical characters, to the metalliferous porphyries, which have produced the immense riches of the Real Monte, of the Bolanos, and partly of the Guanaxuato mines in Mexico; and like them, it abounds in veins containing the precious metals.

The hills of Cancharini, Laycaycota, and San José, are one continuous range, formed of this porphyry almost to their base, and here are situated the rich veins of silver ore which have rendered those several mines so celebrated. They contain all the ores of silver hitherto met with in similar districts.

The great resemblance which the mineral district of San Juan presents in its mineralogical characters to the rich mines of Puno, warrants a belief that if properly worked, it will be a source of great wealth to the State I have referred to the riches which were drawn from those mines in the space of twelve months, and only find a mark of in the returns furnished by the mines of Bolanos, negro de Sombrerete, in Mexico, a single seam of which produced in five or six months, [all charges deducted], a net profit of twenty millions of francs, or £ 823,400 sterling. The ownership of this mine is in the family of Fagoaga, Marquis of Apartado, who as Humboldt observes, exhibits the example of the greatest wealth ever derived from a mine. That of Biscaira, in the district of Real del Monte, may, perhaps, also be remembered as a parallel, it having made its proprietor, the Conde de Regla, one of the richest men of the age. In the year 1774 he had already drawn a net profit of nearly a million and a half British sterling from his mines; and as a proof of the princely munificence of the Conde, he constructed at his own expence at the Havana, two ships of war, one of them of one hundred and twenty guns, which he presented as a free gift to his sovereign, King Charles the Third.

The mines of San Juan, according to report, possess a combination of advantages rarely to be met with, and could be worked on a liberal scale with a capital of one hundred thousand dollars: they require no European machinery, as the compact nature of the rock dispenses with the cost of making the entrances and galleries; they can always obtain a sufficient supply of native and Chilian miners, on moderate terms, and the living is cheap and provisions are abundant. The richest parts of the ore will ensure a profitable return on all disbursements from the moment of beginning to work them.

Amidst the many speculations of the year 1825, there is none perhaps about which will remain so large a return as the mines of San Juan; and we doubt not that if they are conducted in a spirit equal to their importance, we shall see that city, like the far famed Potosi, [which is now a miserable hut, inhabited by an Indian, [in the course of twenty years] to a wealthy population of one hundred thousand inhabitants.

Wool and Cotton Supply.

Emigration to the River Plate

In a paragraph in yesterday's Times, a very great increase which has lately taken place in the importation of wool, notice was omitted to be taken of the fact that the largest proportionate augmentation has been in the supply of wool from countries specified in the Board of Trade accounts. During the first six months of the present year, the imports of wool from those countries increased more than 50 per cent. in comparison with the corresponding period of last year—the total increase from all countries being under 12 per cent. A large proportion of this increased supply has been received from the River Plate, whence, though the introduction of really skilled sheep-farming is only recent, wool is fast becoming one of the chief exports. Millions of sheep somewhere in the teeming plains of that fertile region, and, wherever crossing with the Merino breed has been adopted, as on the Mercedes estate of the Baron de Maua, in the department of Soriano, and on the Banda Oriental, the wool obtained is remarkable for its length, weight, and fineness. The demand for fine wools increases so rapidly, both in England and on the Continent, that manufacturers would do well to examine the samples in the Montevidian Department of the Exhibition, to which two medals and one honorable mention have been awarded, though the entire collection consisted of only 20 fleeces. The best methods of extracting the grease from the wool are not as yet as generally practised in the Plate as could be desired.

but much attention has been given to this important point since the intrinsic merits of the wool of that region have been recognized in the European markets and there can be no doubt that the English popularity of these wools will soon equal that of Australian.

The samples in the Exhibition have attracted the attention of dealers, especially French buyers, whose constantly growing demands promise to absorb all the finer descriptions of the River Plate wool for some time to come. Uruguayan wool has, in fact, been steadily advancing in price in the Havre, Antwerp and other continental markets for several years. It is not so well appreciated at present in England, owing to the high favour enjoyed by Australian, chiefly on account of the whiteness of the latter; but microscopic examination shows that the texture of Plate wool is quite as fine as that of the best colonial, while the experience of all manufacturers who have largely used it proves that it yields to none in the essential qualities of softness, warmth and durability.

The River Plate authorities are doing much to attract capital and labour thither, than which no country offers greater facilities for sheep and cattle farming. At a time when the civil war in the United States is closing up one of the principal absorbents of European emigration, these facts cannot be too widely known, the soil and climate of the Plate being admirably adapted for the growth of cereals, while it has also capabilities for the production of any quantity of cotton and tobacco. The sample of wild cotton in the Exhibition has been awarded a medal for fineness and length of staple, and assured a value of 2s 10d per lb, while the tobacco in the same department, also grown wild, has likewise attracted much attention from the excellence of the quality.

Octobre 5—1862.

ETRANGER.

Fête du 15 août.

Le matin. à six heures des salves de canon ont été tirées.

Des coureurs ont été distribuées dans la matinée aux indigens par les soins du maires et des membres des bureaux de bienfaisance.

A une heure, un Te Deum a été chanté dans l'église métropolitaine. Le cardinal Morlot, archevêque de Paris, a officié. Un grand nombre de dignitaires du l'empire, des députations des grands corps de l'Etat et des autorités constituées; assistaient à cette cérémonie

Malgré une pluie d'orage, la foule s'était portée aux théâtres ou devaient se donner des representations gratuites. Dans les théâtres impériaux et dans la plupart des autres théâtres des cantonnes de circonstance faisaient partie du programme de la représentation.

Pendant les représentations des différents théâtres des pantomimes militaires s'exécutaient à l'esplanade des Invalides. Les cinq actes de ces pantomimes ont été consacrés à des divertissements d'escrimeurs et a des jeux du matelot gascogne. Un ballon, dans lequel était monté Mme. Poinsevin, s'enlevait au quai d'Orsay, en face de l'esplanade.

Deux cents musiciens, appartenant aux guides; à la gendarmerie, au 1er régiment des grenadiers de la garde et à la garde de Paris, exécutaient divers morceaux que cet effet les applaudissements d'une foule immense

Vers six heures, la foule sortie des théâtres sont portée dans les quartiers ou des préparatifs avaient été faits pour la fête du soir.

A huit heures, tous les grands édifices ont commencé à s'illuminer, et bientôt les deux rives de la Seine ont été éclairées de feux éblouissans. La cour de rivoli, l'église de la Madeleine, les ponts de la Concorde, des Invalides et de l'Alma, les quais d'Orsay et de Billy, les abords du Champ-de-Mars, la palais de l'Industrie, Parc du Champs Elysées, la colonne Vendôme a tour à tour disputé la bonchevie, le Palais de Justice, l'église Saint-Martin le palais de l'Hotel-de-Ville, la colonne de Juillet, la Place du Trône, étaient illuminés au gaz. Le terre-plein du Pont-Neuf était décoré de guirlandes de ballons lumineux aux trois couleurs.

Dans la grande avenue des Champs-Elysées on avait disposé une illumination nouvelle. Les candélabres en gaz avaient reçu des lustres composés chacun de quatre globes, qui alternaient avec des colonnes portant des bannières en verres de couleur, ou des trophées avec la couronne et le chiffre de l'Empereur.

La fontaine du rond-point était entourée d'un cordon de lampes à gaz et de globes puissees par des globes, et dont les pilastres étaient décorées de drapeaux, d'écussons et des armes impériales en jets de gaz. au dessus de la vasque de la fontaine brillait un soleil portant au milieu de ses rayons une N en verres de couleur.

Dans les centre allées, 10,000 lanternes chinoises étaient suspendues aux branches des arbres. Un immense candélabre de gaz, orné de guirlandes de lampions, s'élevait au milieu de l'Empereur, au sommet. A droite et a gauche on ce palais s'élevait un palmier lumineux sur lequel brillait le chiffre de l'Empereur, de l'Impératrice et du Prince impérial.

Ce brillant feu d'artifice s'est terminé par trois bouquets, le premier composé de bombes de toutes couleurs, le second de fusées en parachute, le troisième de fusées en pluie mêlées de bombes couleurs.

A la même heure, un autre feu d'artifice était tiré à la place du Trône

Le temps, qui avait été pluvieux dans la matinée et dans l'après-midi, a été beau dans la soirée, aussi l'affluence de la population au feu d'artifice et aux illuminations a été d'une immense. Neanmoins grace aux mesures de sureté prises par le Secteur de police, nous n'avons pas appris qu'on ait eu à signaler aucun accident de quelque importance

—Le maréchal Magnan vient d'adresser à la garde nationale, la garde impériale et au corps d'armée Pordre du jour suivant :

"L'empereur, allant au-devant des voeux de la garde nationale et de l'armée, a voulu se trouver au milieu d'elles à la veille de la Saint-Napoléon. Il savait à l'avance avec quelle sympathie il serait reçu par elles, et son attente n'a pas été trompée, car jamais acclamations plus vives et plus chaleureuses n'avaient soulevé sa présence.

"Ces jours de fête produisent toujours de ces marques de dévouement, et à cet très satisfaite de la belle tenue de toutes les troupes qui assistaient à la revue, aussi que la précision et de la précision de leur défilé.

"Elle a daigné, en conséquence, me charger d'être près des troupes de la garde nationale de la Seine, de la garde impériale et du 1er corps d'armée l'interprète de sa complète satisfaction, et c'est avec bonheur que je leur en trans mets ici le témoignage, en remerciant M. le maréchal d'ordonnance la garde impériale, M. le général commandant supérieur de la garde nationale et MM. les officiers généraux présens à la revue de concours qu'ils ont bien voulu me prêter dans cette circonstance.

La Gazette officielle donne les nouvelles suivantes de Garibaldi qui est entré à Catane. Il a pris possession du fanean du télégraphe. Les communications sont alors interrompues avec cette ville. Les bandes de Garibaldi marchent sur Melha marchent depuis hier vers Catane, elles sont arrivées à une petite distance de cette ville."

—Marseille, 21 août.

Des lettres directes de Messine, en date du 17, signalent un passage continuel de troupes dirigées sur Catane. Elles ajoutent que ces troupes restent à quelque distance de cette ville afin d'éviter un conflit avec les garibaldiens. On affirme que le gouvernement italien veut porter l'effectif des troupes, en Sicile, à 40,000 hommes. Les autorités prennent des mesures en conséquence."

—Turin, 21 août.

"L'état de siege a été proclamé en Sicile. L'Opinione mentionne le bruit que Garibaldi aurait nommé le député Nicotera préfet de Catane. Les nouvelles de Messine tendent encore au blocus de Catane. Plusieurs frégates sont à flute restant à l'ancre."

"Quand notre drapeau est quelque part sous le règne dun Napoléon, il ne reculs pas devant des ennemies, et ce qu'il protége est bien protégé. Si des folies de la parole, Garibaldi passait aux folies de l'action, le châtiment ne se ferait pas attendre, et le Saint-Père peut être calme et tranquille derrière le rempart des poitrines françaises.

"Sur ce point, répétons-le, il ne peut y avoir, en France, qu'un sentiment et qu'une pensée. Mais donner les fous qui ne s'arrêtent pas devant le drapeau libérateur de l'Italie, ne serait qu'une dolouereuse nécessité de l'honneur, ce ne serait pas une solution. La question militaire ne résout pas la question politique. Ceux qui confondent ces deux choses, méritent ou d'être déçus, ou qui, pour en profiter, cherchent à créer un déplorable malentendu, ne méritent pas qu'on leur réponde.—P. de Tromenta."

Le grand-duc Constantin ayant sanctionné le jugement du tribunal militaire qui condamne Jarosewicz à mort, l'exécution a eu lieu le 4, à neuf heures du matin dans la citadelle.
